Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Now, it would be well to clarify a couple of things.

Now we do not mean that top flight secretaries show disdain. Where it all started was a quote we used from a fellow who said that it is difficult for some folks to hide disdain. He said that top flight secretaries especially find it difficult to hide possibly because of their high efficiency. Now that's what HE said. Just take it for what it's worth, if anything.

Now to the other, Miss Sally Whitwell is actually Mrs. Bill Whitwell and has been for some years. For some reason some ladies who appear eternally young never lose the "Miss".

Only a few Iris left in that "feast for the eyes" in front of Mrs. Stagner's house on South Sixth Street. But wait until next year.

B. J. Stagner at 230 South 13th Street has some huge purple Morning Glories in full bloom.

Cosmetics: preparations used by teenagers to make them look older and by their mothers to make them look younger longer.

The trouble with opportunity is that it always comes disguised as hard work.

Fellow said it's not the cigarettes that are causing cancer it's the fact people are eating. (I'll eat my hat, get it?)

Heard a fellow this morning talking about a big fellow who bought a small car. Someone said in stead of looking at though he was in the car, it appeared he was wearing it.

Now here is a pretty good thought that comes from William Feather: "Before we throw up our job with that regular weekly pay check, it might be a good idea to figure at current rates of interest the size of the estate it would take to net what we are earning."

For some reason we never looked at it like that.

The current rate of interest for Time Deposit Certificates is five per cent. A fellow who makes $700 each week makes $3640 per year. For him to draw this amount of money in interest he would have to have over $70,000 in the bank in Time Deposit Certificates.

If you had $70,000 in Time Deposit Certificates you would draw $3,500 per year in interest.

Compositions By MSU Music Instructors Performed Sunday

Compositions by Murray State University professors Paul Shaban and Jim Woodard will be performed Sunday, May 8, at three p.m. in the MSU Auditorium.

Shaban's "Symphony No. One" and Woodard's "Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra" will be featured on the fourth concert of the MSU eighth annual Contemporary Arts Festival.

Shaban, director of bands and professor of theory and music at MSU since 1957, studied composition at Eastman School of Music with Howard Hanson, "Dean of American Composers." Shaban, in commenting on his "First Symphony," says: "My aim, in this symphony, has been to create a work young in spirit, grand in scope and simple and direct in expression. Musically, the work follows a modified sonata-allegro form with the low, brooding strings presenting the opening theme in the style of the early Chaconne with short, subsidiary themes entering over a repeated series of moving harmonies — while the tempo gradually accelerates into the rhythmic allegro section, subsiding to a union statement of the first theme, then concludes quietly in a short coda."

Dr. Jim Woodard, professor of theory and piano, came to Murray

Bloodmobile Will Be In Murray May 11

Officials of the Calloway County Chapter of the American Red Cross and officials of the Bloodmobile campaign issued an urgent appeal today for donors to the Calloway County blood bank. The next and final visit of the Bloodmobile for the fiscal year is scheduled for Wednesday, May 11. The Bloodmobile will be located at the First Methodist Church parking lot from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Henry Holton, Chairman of the local group, and Macon Blankenship Recruitment Chairman said that the visit must produce 300 donors to meet the quota for the County. If the quota is met and maintained, every citizen of Calloway County is fully covered and is assured blood without charge, except for the actual transfer charges of the hospital.

The first visit of the Bloodmobile was capotized in February due to extremely bad weather, which put the county behind in its efforts to fill the quota imposed by the National office. This will be the last opportunity for the county to attain full coverage as it has had in the past two years.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 59 are eligible to contribute blood. Doctors in attendance will give each donor a safety check to assure that no one is injured by the donation.

Rev. E. Thach Shauf Will Speak Sunday

Rev. E. Thach Shauf will be the guest speaker at the North Pleasant Grove Cumberland Church Monday, May 9, at 7:00 p.m. Rev. Shauf is pastor of the Margaret Hank Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Paducah. Rev. Shauf went to Columbia, South America in October of 1965 for the purpose of conducting revivals there. He made slides of his trip and will show them.

This is another in the series of a March of Missions Program.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We in Calloway County and Murray are fortunate to obtain this our home. So many are concerned about the welfare of the community and express this concern in various ways. The committee that sponsored the recent cancer "Pop" smear clinic takes this means of saying "Thank You" for the publicity given by the local press and its communications. All news items were given prominent spots in the local news and through this means 800 women responded to the invitation to be examined for cancer of the cervix.

Thanks go to all the fine people who gave their services in the eight Tuesday nights of the clinic conducted in the Calloway County Health Center.

You will be interested to know that 111 women were reported to have an inflammation that they were unaware of and were referred to their doctor; and two tests showed active cancer. One has had successful surgery and the other is being treated.

Those who contributed to the United Fund are to be thanked, too, because the fund allotted the money spent in this clinic. The State Department of Health processed the smears during the last six clinics free. The first two clinics tests were made in Vanderbilt at a cost of $3.00 each or $60.

Through the United Fund allotment, smears are aided financially five individuals in the treatment of cancer.

You will be pleased that through your publicity, Mr. Omar Greenman and Mr. Kenneth Flier of the State Department visited the clinic the seventh night to see what they had read and heard about the other five night's examinations. They were convinced that 100 patients could be tested in an hour. They expressed amazement when they saw all the volunteer help and the two doctors, Conrad Jones and Charles Tuttle on duty. "How do you get all these people to help?" they asked. "You just ought to live in this community. You'd know how we all work for the betterment of conditions," was the answer.

You will be interested to know that Messrs Greenman and Flier said the local cancer clinic held two years ago and the last one have been an influential example in the state. Two other counties are doing the same thing and one other is in the process of beginning a clinic.

Thank you sincerely,

Mrs. Wells Purdon, chairman
Mrs. Graves Hendon
Mrs. Charles Hendon
Mrs. Graves Hendon
Mrs. Myrtle Wall

Sixteen Three Year Olds Are Entered; Fast Track Forecast

By Ray AYRES
UPI Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — The Kentucky Derby, which once shaped up as a two-horse race but has developed into a wide open affair, came up for its 92nd running at Churchill Downs today with a half a dozen solid contenders.

Sixteen 3-year-olds were entered for the first of the Triple Crown classic last Thursday but one of them already has been scratched, another was considered a doubtful starter even as the vanguard of a crowd annually estimated at 100,000 started its trek towards the track.

When nominations for the race closed last February, 159 young horses were named for the race but the public only had thoughts for a clash between two of them—Buckpasser, the 1965 2-year-old champion, and Graustark, undefeated last season.

But after winning the Flamingo Stakes Buckpasser cracked a hoof and finally Graustark was defeated for the only time 10 days ago when he broke a bone in the hip after Grass Stakes.

Probable Starters
The list of possible starters immediately swelled with Abley Hoe, Kasal King, Ambered, Stagerous Truagnew, Advacolor, Williamston Kid, Sky Guy, Fleet Shoe, Quintia, Relabillate, Beau Sub, Dominar, Blue Skyer, Sean E Indian and Exhibitionist composing the field at entry time.

Sean E Indian hurt a leg and was withdrawn by owner-trainer Mrs. Mary Kelm while Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Exhibitionist developed a swollen hip Friday morning.

Trainer Hiram Jacobs said he would scratch that colt unless the swelling went down before post time.

Grand Prix Stable's Abe's Hope, who defeated Graustark in 1964, Blue Grass, was favorite at 5-2. The Illinois-bred colt, one of the few from that state to race in the Kentucky Derby and the only public change from there, was ridden by Willie Shoemaker.

Shoemaker, who has won the Kentucky Derby three times, rides in the race for the 15th consecutive year. Originally he was scheduled to ride Buckpasser.

Co-second choices were Michael Ford's Kasal King, a Maryland colt, and Wheatley Stable's Supendous, a Kentucky-bred.

Kasal King, the most consistent horse in the field with six wins in eight races this year, was ridden by Don Brumfield while Braillo Baena, who won the Kentucky Derby with Chateaugay in 1963, rode Supendous. Baena originally was switched when that colt was forced out by injury.

At 6-1 was Amerold, winner of the Wood Memorial in his last start. Bill Boland, who won the Kentucky Derby as an apprentice book in 1960 rides for Reginal Webster.

Also highly regarded was Barry

It is good to sing praises unto our God, for it is pleasant; and praise is comely. — Psalm 147:1.

It is fair assumption that God delights in the praises of His children; that He appreciates appreciation. It is also fair to assume that Psalm-singing is not something to be scoffed at. It is both appropriate and desirable, now as ever.

DETROIT — Automobile sales peaked up in the final 10 days of April and climbed 2 per cent above April's total to 304,000 vehicles, a year earlier to 304,000 vehicles. Industry reports indicate. General Motors was responsible for all the increases, however.

NEW YORK — The Securities and Exchange Commission has amended its complaint against Texas Gulf Sulphur's management, charging 13 officers, directors and employees with acting improperly by trading in the stock on inside information about the Ontario mineral strike. In the amendment, the SEC seeks to establish the principle that insiders are not entitled to trade in the stock immediately after a public announcement of an important news development affecting it.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Charles Callaghan also promised repeal of the 10 per cent emergency surcharge on imports by November.

TV CAMEOS: Andy Prince

His Optimism Brought Him Stardom

By ED MURELL

LANKY Andy Prince doesn't subscribe to the oft-quoted cryptic comment that youth is a wonderful thing, it's a crime it's wasted on the young. If he had, he might still be back in Florida working at any one of a number of assorted, uninteresting jobs.

Fortunately for Andy, however, he was imbued with the wild optimism of youth some years back and lit out for New York to become an actor. Now, ten years (and much spaghetti and crackers and water) later, he has attained TV and movie stardom.

THE 6-FOOT, 2-inch, 150-pound actor reminisced about his start in show-business, and talked about his new NBC video series, The Road West, during a recent visit to New York. "Today I think I'd hesitate, have qualms about it," he said thoughtfully. "But then I was a starry-eyed kid of 19 with about a year and a half of study at the University of Miami."

"At that time of life you think you can do anything. At that time of life, too, the marvelous thing is that you have nothing to lose. I couldn't have gotten to New York, as soon as I saved 100 bucks, I took off. My dad, who is a pullman conductor, got me a free ticket. Thank God he did or it would have cost off almost my whole bundle before I arrived."

LIKE MANY other youngsters before him, Andy soon found out that the big town wasn't waiting for him with open arms. As a matter of fact, most people in it did not care who he was. He soon discovered. The going got a little rough. "I went hungry a few times between jobs as a hat checker at a night club and working as a shoe clerk," said Andy. "On other occasions I sang in a choir in a church in Greenwich Village and was paid $10 a shot for the job. I remember that there were a lot of meals of spaghetti, which was cheap. If that wasn't available, I'd fill my stomach on crackers and water."

Meanwhile, Andy was taking acting lessons in a class presided over by the late Mary

In The Road West, a color series which debuts on NBC in the fall, Andy Prince and Brenda Scott play brother and sister.

Welch. She gave him the lessons free of charge. They eventually paid off when he landed an off-Broadway role. "I played the young lead in Mrs. Patterson and was paid 30 bucks a week. I was rich — the play lasted six weeks."

During the next year and a half, Andy had an occasional TV role and played in stock in Bucks County, Pa. In 1959, he made his Broadway debut as Eugene Grant in Look Homeward, Angel. "That really got me going," he said. "It ran for about a year and led to another stage role in A Distant Bell."

In a newsletter published today he asked the home folks to send the details to him when they notice a change in the price of beans, brooms, paint, fertilizer or what-have you. He said this would provide him with good ammunition for arguing the case of wiser handling of government money.

Cordelia Erwin And Blankenship Groups Have Supper Meet

The Blankenship Circle and the Cordelia Erwin Circle of the South Pleasant Grove Methodist Church met at the church Wednesday evening for the regular meeting to honor the mothers and to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

A delicious supper was served to over a hundred guests, members, and the official board met in the room for their business after the supper. The program was a book study on Acts, and to attend to the business.

Mrs. Olive Erwin brought the meeting to order with a lovely organ selection. Mrs. Hoyt Owen gave the lesson study on Acts and it was presented in a very interesting way.

Mrs. Gladys May Brainerd, Estelle Gooch, and Clara Tress were program leaders and chose for their subject, "Dresses and Receptions." They each gave interesting talks and brought out with every dress there must be a desire to work and sacrifice to make the dream become a reality.

Pledge cards were passed out and signed, and a prayer of thanksgiving for God's presence and blessing was given. Mrs. Jack Bailey, pastor, gave a song leader, Mrs. W. C. Cunningham, Mrs. Clifton Harrell, and Mrs. Ester Gooch.

Many others took part by answering questions from the book of Acts that were given them by Mrs. Owen and Miss Ann Wilson. Mrs. Owen had the prayer and the business part of the program was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ingeborg Peadar.

Mrs. Gladys Brown read the minutes and the state of new officers for the coming year. Mrs. Estelle Gooch gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Gladys Brainerd attended the annual conference of the WSCS held in Dyersburg, Tenn., in April and Mrs. Brown gave a most interesting report.

Service plans were presented to Mrs. Owen for her untiring service and to Mrs. Amelia Erwin, mother of the society's president, Mrs. Ivan Guthrie had the closing prayer.

The members expressed their appreciation for having all the ladies, all the guests, and the two from the New Hope society, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn and Mrs. Zelma Stubbfield.

A Debt That Can Never Be Repaid

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May I say something for the thousands of us who are retired? Most of us draw small social security retirement benefits and have no other income. We can't work for various reasons. Maybe a wife or husband is disabled and can't be left alone. Then our children write "in," "Don't do this," and "Don't do that." And "Can't you get someone to do it for you?" I wonder where they think the money is coming from to get things "done" for us? They also say, "If you need anything, let us know."

Abby, they know we aren't going to ask them for anything. Why can't each son and daughter send a few dollars every month in case we need it? "I don't think this is fair, but what can I do about it?"

DEAR ABBY: I have a 22-year-old son who is only human. There is a big, overgrown, 14-year-old girl who lives up the street from us, and she runs after my son all the time. Her parents have given her permission to date. She is forever bouncing over here, asking my son to carry her places or to take her to the movies or somewhere.

I told him he had better not because if anything ever happened to her he would go to jail. I am worried to death all the time, Abby. I have even talked with this girl and tried to warn her about what could happen, but she won't listen to me. What do I do now?

DEAR MOTHER: If you think your son could become dangerously involved with this girl, why don't you lecture HIM? It won't help to have just "in" to date. (People say I'm cute.) My mother is a 37-year-old widow, and she has just started to date, too. (She is very attractive.) Last Saturday night I had to break a very special date because at the last minute mom got a chance to go out and one of us had to stay home with my two little brothers. And another thing, Abby, mom is always on the phone, and my friends tell me they can't get her. I don't think this is fair, but what can I do about it?

DEAR ABBY: Since both you and your mother are now playing the dating game, you should take time out and make some ground rules. Don't expect "equality," mom should get preference because of her age (you've got more time, honey). But you should never be asked to break a special date to Mommy. And about the phone: Tell mom to put in a second phone line. It means scripping somewhere else. It's the best investment an attractive widow with three children can make.

DEAR ONE: I say, I'd like to see the child who had to ask his parents for something he "needed." Parents know how much it costs to feed and clothe such child, and there was always enough for "extras" because mom and dad denied themselves. The son or daughter of a loving parent who says, "If you need anything, let us know," needs to know something of the debt he never can repay—the one he owes his parents.

The son or daughter of a loving parent who says, "If you need anything, let us know," needs to know something of the debt he never can repay—the one he owes his parents.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 22-year-old son who is only human. There is a big, overgrown, 14-year-old girl who lives up the street from us, and she runs after my son all the time. Her parents have given her permission to date. She is forever bouncing over here, asking my son to carry her places or to take her to the movies or somewhere.

I told him he had better not because if anything ever happened to her he would go to jail. I am worried to death all the time, Abby. I have even talked with this girl and tried to warn her about what could happen, but she won't listen to me. What do I do now?

DEAR MOTHER: If you think your son could become dangerously involved with this girl, why don't you lecture HIM? It won't help to have just "in" to date. (People say I'm cute.) My mother is a 37-year-old widow, and she has just started to date, too. (She is very attractive.) Last Saturday night I had to break a very special date because at the last minute mom got a chance to go out and one of us had to stay home with my two little brothers. And another thing, Abby, mom is always on the phone, and my friends tell me they can't get her. I don't think this is fair, but what can I do about it?

DEAR ABBY: Since both you and your mother are now playing the dating game, you should take time out and make some ground rules. Don't expect "equality," mom should get preference because of her age (you've got more time, honey). But you should never be asked to break a special date to Mommy. And about the phone: Tell mom to put in a second phone line. It means scripping somewhere else. It's the best investment an attractive widow with three children can make.

DEAR ONE: I say, I'd like to see the child who had to ask his parents for something he "needed." Parents know how much it costs to feed and clothe such child, and there was always enough for "extras" because mom and dad denied themselves. The son or daughter of a loving parent who says, "If you need anything, let us know," needs to know something of the debt he never can repay—the one he owes his parents.

A Debt That Can Never Be Repaid

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May I say something for the thousands of us who are retired? Most of us draw small social security retirement benefits and have no other income. We can't work for various reasons. Maybe a wife or husband is disabled and can't be left alone. Then our children write "in," "Don't do this," and "Don't do that." And "Can't you get someone to do it for you?" I wonder where they think the money is coming from to get things "done" for us? They also say, "If you need anything, let us know."

Abby, they know we aren't going to ask them for anything. Why can't each son and daughter send a few dollars every month in case we need it? "I don't think this is fair, but what can I do about it?"

CHAPTER 15

"JUST what do you say is going on?" Reid Logan said as he faced Kirby McCabe. "The Grand Pacific is heading in the wrong direction west of Shiloh River," Kirby said. "It's building into rough country where it will go bankrupt trying to bridge marshes and quicksand rivers. It will have to deal with grades and curves that will run up operating costs no railroad can afford." Norah Logan started to speak, but her brother motioned her to remain silent. "McCabe," Reid said, "you ought to have the decency to make such accusations face-to-face with my father."

"That's what I've been trying to do."

"You're wrong, but you could do damage that can't be repaired if you make wild statements in public. My father ought to have the chance to deny this if you are wrong."

In the tent, a long burst of applause marked the end of Horace Logan's speech. The banquet was over. Kirby heard the stir and buzz of conversation as the guests arose to leave.

"It looks like I've lost my chance, right now at least," he said. "But I'd be only too happy to face Horace Logan and brand him for what he is. A swindler. And a murderer of soldiers. You name the time and place."

"The sooner the better," Norah Logan said grimly. "Reid, find Father and bring him to our rooms at the hotel. I'll wait for you there with this man."

"Not the hotel," her brother said. "How about the parlor car? He'd have a better chance of slipping away to the car without attracting attention."

"Satisfactory? If so, follow me."

"I'll follow you," Kirby said. "Incidentally, you have some property that belongs to me."

"Yes. Your gun. And I'll use it, if need be. I want to be very sure you understand that."

"I understand. But there's a little matter that bothers me. We might have company."

"Company?"

"Someone keeps trying to look over my shoulder. Someone took a pot shot at me the other night. Ruined a good hat. Someone tried to throw me up at the hotel room tonight. Ruined a good room. Killed some flies, maybe. And killed the man they sent to do the job."

Her breath caught. "I heard an explosion. So that was it?" She peered closer at him. "Are you trying to say you believe my father had anything to do with those things?"

utter darkness. He heard her fumbling around and presently she lighted an oil lamp. They remained silent, waiting. It was some time before they heard footsteps crunching in the cinders outside. Reid Logan's voice cautiously hailed the car, and his sister unlocked the door.

Instead of Horace Logan, his companion was a balding, fleshy broad-jawed man in evening clothes, with shaggy, graying brows that hooded wise eyes.

"Why, Mr. Garrett?" Norah exclaimed.

"Her brother closed and locked the door, and spoke to Kirby. 'This is Mr. Martin Garrett. He is vice-president of the Grand Pacific and is executive officer in charge of all construction work.'

"How about Horace Logan?" Kirby demanded. "Where is he?"

Martin Garrett spoke. He had a harsh, peremptory manner. "The general is resting and can't be disturbed. He has been under great strain lately. This evening tonight was a little too much for him."

Norah uttered a gasp of alarm. "You mean he's ill?"

"Nothing to be worried about. I'm sure. He'll be all right tomorrow, my dear. Only a slight indisposition. The doctor says all he needs is a good night's rest."

"Doctor? A doctor was needed?"

"Only to give him something so he can sleep. He does not need further excitement tonight. That's an order. Your brother understands."

Kirby spoke caustically. "What he means is that the general doesn't want to see me tonight. Or any other night."

Garrett scowled. "Reid, is this the person you said had something important to say to your father?"

"I'm the man," Kirby said.

"If it's a personal matter it will have to wait," Garrett said. "If it concerns the Grand Pacific, you can take it up with me."

"It's both," Kirby said.

"Bale it," Garrett snapped. "I'm busy tonight."

"I'll make it brief," Kirby said. "This railroad isn't even going to get to Oregon. Over the present route, at least. Or even to the mountains. The only place it will go is into the lands of a receiver."

Martin Garrett glared. "Kirby, Kirby, the man was not as surprised as he pretended."

"Kirby was sure that Garrett was lying. The man was only stalling for time. The story reaches a climax here on Monday."

An investment in Your Future

ATTEND CHURCH

In all ways of life, keep him swinging in the proper

STRIKE
ZONE

PLAY BALL... is a familiar cry in the spring and summer. This is a time that parents and coaches, alike, encourage the boy not to swing unless the ball is in the strike zone... for in the early years of playing the game, the tendency is to swing at every pitch. This holds true in all of life, so it is up to wiser and older heads to train and encourage him in the better things. Bringing up a child is a serious matter and all can use help. Let the church help you to teach him the right ways.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
